Financial Services Institute of Australasia
www.finsia.com/cpd

Talk of recession in the US, a softening property market and distress signals emerging from various companies is causing some concern for investors within the Australian market. However, opportunities exist amidst the ever-changing economic environment we operate in. How do we identify where these opportunities are and what signals indicate potential for growth during these volatile times?

Join us for an informative presentation discussing the property and equities sectors, highlighting potential growth both here and overseas and looking at good defensive strategies going forward.

Presented by:

Equities: Matthew Hollyman F Fin, Private Client Adviser, ABN AMRO Morgans

Matthew is a Private Client Adviser with ABN AMRO Morgans. He began his career in financial services in 1999, working for Bell Potter as a Research Analyst. Following this, he moved into a corporate role at Commonwealth Bank and, shortly after, a role within AMP heading up the Financial Planning Research division. Matthew relocated from Sydney to Brisbane where he worked briefly with Goldman Sachs JBWere before taking up his current role with ABN AMRO Morgans.

Experienced in investments, financial planning, and superannuation, he now directs his efforts to building and managing wealth for retirees, professionals and business people through shares, managed funds, fixed interest securities, property trusts and cash-based products.

Qualifications include a Bachelor of Business awarded by QUT, Graduate Diploma in Applied Finance & Investment and Graduate Diploma in Financial Planning award by Financial Services Institute of Australia.

Property: Robert Bitomsky, Equities Analyst ABN AMRO Morgans

Robert currently works as an equities analyst at ABN AMRO Morgans. Prior to this, Robert worked with McPhersons & Associates in Financial Planning and Bramley Properties in consultation. Robert specialises in Listed Property Trusts, small-cap developers/construction and some econometrics. Qualifications include a Bachelor of Science, Graduate Diploma Commerce in Applied Finance, and he is also currently completing a Masters in Commerce.
